Loss of Revenue Perils Port, May Force Closure: McCarthy

Either the Port of Redwood City is going to have to develop new sources of revenue or it must be closed, Port Comsr. John McCarthy claimed Wednesday. He explained that the port was at present operating at a loss of $3028 monthly and unless this can be halted the city would be money ahead to close the port and sell the land involved.

accountant, who was hired at McCarthy's request. The Uhlenberg report for July showed July operating revenues of $3045.20 and operating expenses of $2290.43, leaving a balance of $1114.77.

This balance was eradicated by a $2350 provision for depreciation, and a $410.62 deduction to pay interest on outstanding bonds. In addition to the loss of $1645.85 which Uhlenberg showed, McCarthy claimed that the $300 item for incidental expenses such as hiring a port attorney and a $1083 item for the redemption of bonds should also be deducted, giving the $3028 figure.

McCarthy said the port has received very few ships since the end of the war and was faced with the loss of the lumber trade it formerly enjoyed. He said that lumber is now being shipped by rail instead of water and claimed that trucks have knocked out the river steamship lines and may ruin the port's chances for continuing.

In addition to the expenses listed above, McCarthy claimed the port was faced with almost a 100 per cent increase in the $1600 a year sum it pays for insurance.

He pointed out, however, that the port's financial success during the war was not reflected in city tax rates. He said that each year the port paid $18,000 into the city's general fund to redeem bonds and pay interest on bonds. Instead of cutting taxes that much, he continued, city councilmen taxed the public for this sum in a maneuver to get around revenue shortages. The city can charge no more than a $1 rate for general fund purposes and during the past years has needed additional funds.

The commissioner said that Leslie Rudy, port manager on military leave, is now in Los Angeles and has made known his intention to return to the port. During his absence the port has been managed by A. A. Moran.

Ravenswood Group Meets With Recall Vote Principals

The principals of the turbulent Ravenswood School recall action were introduced to school district voters Tuesday night at an orderly round-table session sponsored by the Ravenswood Parents League.

The meeting was chairmaned by George T. Rayfield, president of the league, who introduced T. A. Callahan, and Mrs. Paul Boyer, school board members who are targets of the recall move, and Benjamin Beal and Clarence Hynes, citizen's committee candidates to the board.

In an attempt to avoid the emotional wrangling which has characterized past public meetings on the issue, Rayfield permitted no debate from the audience which filled the school auditorium.

Each of the four principals was permitted a short statement presenting his or her qualifications and policy for the contested positions, and then slips of paper were passed among the audience for written questions to be addressed to either Callahan, speaking for the present board members, or Beal, speaking for the candidates.

The questions and answers merely reiterated the past statements of both parties to the dispute, but it set a precedent for rational consideration of the problems, which Rayfield said would make for more intelligent voting when the issue goes to the public Sept. 10.

During the course of the meeting Callahan defended the position of the board by saying that board members did only what they were required to do by law and their conscience in ousting Roy Liddicoat as supervisor, the move which set off the present controversy.

Callahan criticized the handling of discipline under Liddicoat, and claimed that Ravenswood pupils were receiving below-standard education because the teachers were able to "teach 'just as they liked," without sufficient emphasis on the fundamentals, the three R's, geography and history. He also criticized Liddicoat for passing recall petitions.

Beal, who taught at Ravenswood for two years, and is now an officer of the state Bureau of Vocational Rehabilitation, said that he was without prejudice in the current controversy, and had agreed to become a candidate to avert further strife.

Mrs. Boyer attacked the recall on the grounds that any candidate elected to succeed her will have to run again in May, 1947, when her term expires. She declared that the May election is the proper time to make any changes in the school board, and asked the voters to give the present board a chance to follow out its plans under new superintendent, Paul Henry.

Hynes, a parent of three Ravenswood children, declared that the cost of the recall was valid if it awakened the people to the fact that the school is a community responsibility. He said that he felt he could unite the board, since he had no bias against board or school personnel.

During the course of the meeting it was pointed out that Callahan was elected by only 37 votes at the last election from a voting public of 2700.

Rayfield deplored this low figure, and urged everyone on the school district to vote at the coming election.

Minor Objections on Menlo Park Improvements at Council Hearing

The proposed Santa Cruz-Oak Grove improvement area in Menlo Park weathered another protest meeting Tuesday and was guaranteed smooth sailing until Nov. 12, the date set by the city council for the next hearing.

Written protests from owners of 30 per cent of the property to be assessed were read, but only three out of the 75 residents who filled the seats and lined the walls of the city hall voiced objections.

Following the protest hearing the tentative budget for 1946-47 heard publicly at the last council meeting was adopted as permanent, as was the tax rate of $1. The latter is an increase of four cents over last year's rate.

The letters of protest against the improvement project represented the owners of only 30 per cent of the property concerned; objections from owners of 50 per cent of the property is necessary to halt the project.

One letter, signed by 19 property owners—the majority of whom have property on El Camino Real in the area under discussion—described the proposed shopping district and parking facilities as "an unnecessary expense at this time."

The other letter came from the First Presbyterian Church of Menlo Park. The church's board of trustees protested the amount of assessment against the church considering the relatively small benefit a church would receive from such an improvement. They did not register a complaint against the feasibility or desirability of the plan, however.

Boy Scouts Enter Chest Drive Parade

J. C. Ferrell, parade chairman for the 1946 Community Chest drive, announced that the first two units signed for the Sept. 28 event are the Boy Scout Band from Burlingame and the San Mateo County Horsemen's Assn.

The parade will be held the day before the annual solicitation starts in the Redwood City residential district.

Already under way is the advance gifts solicitation under Martin Flynn, county assessor. Receipts reported to date: $1775. The chest goal this year is $30,000.

Solicitation of the Woodside area by Dr. Sumner Hardy and Fire Chief John Volpiano is scheduled to start Sept. 1.

200 Veterans Here Seek Terminal Pay Advice

Floyd D. Granger, county veterans' service officer, Wednesday said more than 200 veterans had consulted his office thus far in completing applications for enlisted personnel terminal leave pay.

More than 45 persons called at his office in the courthouse Tuesday, and at least 60 consulted him on Monday, he said.

Granger and his assistant, Mrs. Florence Donnelly, who in the last fiscal year held 6367 interviews, estimated average number of monthly callers is now 500 persons.

On the job training and National Service Life Insurance at present comprise the business of most callers, he added.

Port Group Votes Funds For Alarms

Port of Redwood City commissioners Tuesday night voted to spend $781 to improve the port fire alarm system. Port Mgr. A.A. Moran said the improvements involved would bring the alarm system in line with recommendations made by Fire Chief Joseph Lodi and the Board of Fire Underwriters of the Pacific.

The action, taken at a special meeting, represents a backing down on the part of commissioners from a previous position. On July 23 two commissioners, R. C. R. Morser and John McCarthy, had threatened to resign unless the port system was re-connected to the city's system. City Mgr. E. W. Blom had ordered the port system disconnected after it had turned in 26 false alarms in five years.

Blom in a letter at that time to the commission had requested that the port pay for improving the system and that a recording device be attached to the port system. The device would enable firemen to tell at a glance which one of the port's many boxes had been pulled. Moran said Wednesday that the device was one of the improvements.

Moran would not say that when the voted improvements are completed that the port system would again be re-connected.

The commissioners have not resigned.

At Tuesday night's special session the commission also:

Received a check for $30,000 representing the final payment from the U.S. Navy for use of the port during the war. In all, the navy paid $97,500 to the port during the war and constructed improvements which Moran valued at $453,000.

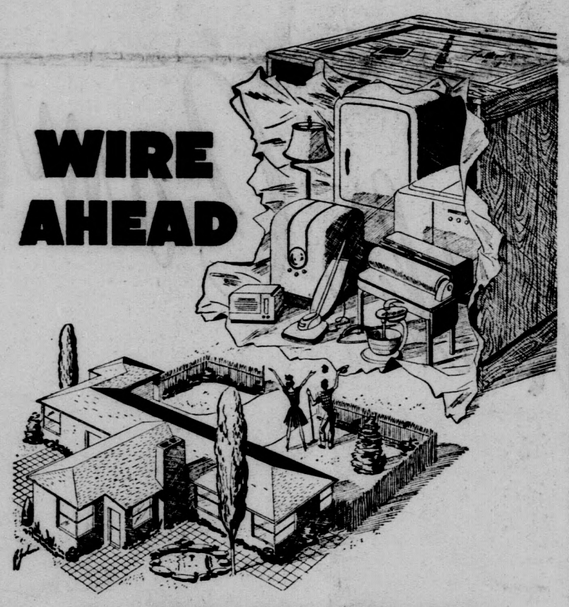
Instructed Moran to urge U.S. engineers to dredge the turning basin and parts of the port channel.

Discussed a plan whereby the port, the Southern Pacific Co. and the Federal Public Housing Authority would jointly agree to allow the FPHA to handle its own switching on SP tracks on port property.

Sgt. Keller Completes Adjutant School Course

First Sgt. William G. Keller, 123 Poplar Ave, was one of 153 men to be graduated from the recruiting course at the Adjutant General's School, Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., Aug. 16, according to an announcement made Monday by Col. Lathrop B. Clapham, school commandant. Sgt. Keller has also attended the Clerks' School, Ft. Lewis.

The 1800 officers and 6000 enlisted men needed to staff the nation's post war recruiting stations are being trained at the Adjutant General's School, Fort Oglethorpe, at the rate of approximately 600 per month. Establishment of this course was one more in a series of rapid strides taken by the War Department to expedite recruiting for the army.



WIRE AHEAD
for MODERN LIVING

Your home will be ready to "take delivery" and connect the many mechanical servants you plan to buy if that home has "Certified Adequate Wiring." When you see the "Adequate Wiring" symbol on a home being built or remodeled, it means plenty of circuits of large enough wire, plenty of outlets and switches for a lifetime of modern electrical service.

Too often, house wiring is designed for lighting alone so that lights blink when the refrigerator motor comes on or the washing machine or iron is being used. That means voltage has dropped and the lights and appliances on that circuit must work harder and longer.

Prepare your home for the future, wire ahead. Insist on Certified Adequate Wiring under the floorboards and inside the walls.

At a luncheon yesterday at the Menlo Circus Club given by Geraldine Moore for her former University of California roommate, Mrs. Petie Ridgeway of Pasadena, the hostess also chose that time to reveal her engagement to Robert Joseph Haid.

When friends picked up gardenia corsages, set at each place, they learned of the betrothal of ther hostess. Cards bearing the names of the engaged couple were hidden beneath the flower.

The party was ostensibly given for Mrs. Ridgeway, who has been studying voice in Chicago for the past two years. She is visiting in Millbrae with her sister, Mrs. Lee E. Ham, before continuing South.

"Gerrie," as the prospective bride is known to her intimates, is the niece of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Moore of Atherton. She took her early training at the Sarah Dix Hamlin School and later attended the University of California, where she was a Kappa Alpha Theta. She is a San Francisco Junior Leaguer and also a member of the Woodside-Atherton Junior Auxiliary.

Her husband-to-be is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Haid of Palo Alto. A graduate of Santa Clara University, he served for three years as a lieutenant (jg) in the navy. He has one brother, Charles M. Haid Jr., of Palo Alto.

Gerrie and Bob are planning a January wedding.

Talk on Fashions:

Junior Matrons' First Fall Luncheon Features Baroness Von Ridelstein

"If American designers keep on their toes they will maintain the lead in fashion," stated Baroness Maria Von Ridelstein when she addressed the San Carlos Junior Matrons yesterday at the first fall luncheon meeting of the club. The affair was well attended with many guests present as well as members.

The speaker, a widely traveled person, is head of an art and style school in San Francisco. She is also a student of the history of fashion and has published an illustrated book on costume designing. In her talk yesterday, she pointed out how social conditions affect styles. She thought the wide shoulders, so popular at present, reflected the emancipation of women.

The baroness said California styles will spread over the world because, designed for a moderate climate, they become suitable everywhere.

The past executive board members were hostesses at the meeting headed by Mrs. Alan B. Powell. The decoration motif was "back to school" and box luncheons were served the guests. The hostesses wore school costumes with "gingham dresses and pigtails." Mrs. John H. Kemp Jr. is hostess chairman for the year.

Mrs. William Cooley presided over the business session. Mrs. Walter Simon was appointed treasurer to fill the place of Mrs. Harold Montgomery who resigned. The club's participation in the Harvest Festival to be held Oct. 19 was outlined. The plans are for a Chinese tea garden with entertainment.

During the meeting the past presidents were presented with corsages as honored guests of the day. Those present included: Mrs. Robert T. Pratt, Mrs. H. V. Brown, Mrs. C. L. Smalley and Mrs. Harold Lane.

'Sam-Tom' Club Promotes Friendships Between Belgium and America

Headquarters for an international club may be centered in Redwood City, when the activities of the newly organized "Sam-Tom" Club get underway, it was announced today by Mr. Guy Golley of Hopkins Ave., representative of the American Section of the club.

In explaining the unusual name, Mr. Golley said the Sam stood for Uncle Sam and the Tom was for the British Tommy. The club was first organized in Belgium after the war and its purpose is to foster and maintain friendship between the people of Belgium and America. Both young men and women are eligible to join. There are nearly 75 members in Belgium, most of whom are students at the university, who are anxious to correspond in English with Americans. So far the club has only 25 members in the United States.

Miss Louise Richardson is chairman of the Illinois branch and Miss Lillie Trager of the California branch.

Golf to Be Added to Hospital Activities

Women members of the Peninsula Golf and Country Club will meet this afternoon at the clubhouse to discuss plans for aiding in the recreation activities at the Veterans Administration Hospital in East Palo Alto.

Mrs. Albert Utah Is Honored at Bridal Shower

On Tueseday evening Mrs. F. E. Duarte and Mrs. Walter Francis shared honors as hostess at a bridal shower honoring Mrs. Albert Utah, who until her marriage last month in Reno was Miss Harriet Williamson.

Harriet is the only daughter of the Frank Williamsons of Pescadero, pioneer family. She was graduated from the University of California and is a teacher in the Richmond High School.

The evening was spent in playing games and a light buffet supper was served.

Woman's Society Is Entertained by Talented Children

The general meeting of the Women's Society of the First Methodist Church was held yesterday with Mrs. Virgil Reed, president, presiding.

Hostesses for the afternoon were members of Fidelity Circle with Mrs. Ernest Baker, Mrs. Fred Schmitz and Mrs. John Furnas in charge.

Young people of the church furnishing a program included David Rodenhuis, violin solo, accompanied by Herbert Dunn of San Mateo "Puppet Show"; Edward Marcroft, piano solo "Deep River"; Elizabeth Cloud, vocal solos "Willie's Prayer" and "Three Little Chestnuts"; and Maribah Cloud, musical reading "Once There Was a Little Man." The latter two were accompanied by their mother, Mrs. Roy Cloud Jr. Concluding the program, Aileen Sherry gave a reading "She Powders Her Nose" and Sandra Ratcliff sang a hymn "For the Beauty of the Earth," accompanied by Aileen Sherry.

BY LOCOMOTIVE BILL

BLOWING OFF STEAM: The scallion prize this week goes to those storekeepers on Broadway with backyards alongside the railroad tracks and across from the Southern Pacific depot who persist in dumping their rubbish without regard to cleanliness, fire prevention, health standards or the fact that they are maintaining an eye sore right in the heart of our city visible to visitors traveling through the city.

Several years ago Redwood City had a cleanup committee appointed by the city council to make a survey of the city and report to the city council all eye sores then in existence.

This committee did a splendid job and with the 100 per cent cooperation given them by the city council many of these nuisances were eliminated. The city presented a fairly clean appearance for a time but lately the eye sores and the fire hazards have again become evident.

We suggest that our city council consider reviving the original committee or appointing a new one. Only in this way can Redwood City be assured of a clean city.

The present water controversy brings to mind the fact that former fire chief Mark Ryan told the city council a number of years ago of the inadequacy of the water mains in various residential sections of Redwood City. The present city manager deserves a cheer for at least laying out the plans for correcting the situation as soon as the pipe is available.

The house committee of the Redwood City Commuter's Club held its monthly meeting on Thursday evening at the home of Norman Meyer.

Plans were made at the meeting for the big barbecue party at the tum Suden estate on Sunday, Sept. 8. After listening to Chairman Raubinger outline the menu, Loco is convinced that this will be the grandest party ever put on by the Commuters.

George says New York steaks, restaurant choice cuts, are on the menu along with many other appetizing victuals which will satisfy the most exacting of tastes. Sanford De Bow, entertainment chairman is arranging a program which we understand will exceed in quality of entertainment anything seen in this part of the country.

This super de luxe program will be supplemented by Kim Kimberley's recording orchestra, one of the best in San Mateo County. Tickets are in the hands of members of the house committee and from all reports the barbecue is going to be witnessed by a record crowd.

House committee members present at the meeting were Geo. Raubinger, Norman Meyer, "Doc" Boyd, Clarence Brizee, Stanley Perkins, Cecil Campbell, Joe McClellan, Paul Allen, Ray Cereghino, "Duke" Martin, Harold Donnelly, Ross Winchester, and "Kim" Kimberly.

SAFETY: Defective vehicles . . . one third of over 900,000 cars checked during the first three weeks of the National Police Traffic Safety Drive had mechanical defects.

In reviewing the statistical report for 1946 in the State of California it was found that defective brakes were the chief cause of accidents involving mechanical and other defects, with defective lighting equipment second, and punctures or blowouts third. This same statistical report showed only two Peninsula cities with a reduction in automobile fatalities during 1945, Burlingame and San Carlos.

In cities of over 100,000 population only two showed a reduction, Oakland and Berkeley. This is an indication to Loco that the East Bay law enforcement agencies know how to deal with traffic offenders in their cities. Drunk driving and "had been" drinking drivers as usual figured in a large percentage of accidents.

This condition will prevail as long as the State Board of Equalization permits the licensing of cocktail bars and taverns in the hundreds along the highways of this state.

Locomotives: Forty-five per cent of existing locomotives have been in service for more than thirty years. More than one-half of the passenger cars are over 25 years old . . . so says the August issue of Northern Trust Company's Business Comment.

Commuter's Club agenda: Special house committee meeting Wednesday, Aug. 28, at the home of Clarence Brizee. Directors' meeting, Tuesday, Sept. 3, at the home of Wayne Burke; Annual barbecue, tum Suden estate, Sunday, Sept. 8.

Squeeze Off In Leather Crisis Here

Spokesmen for Redwood City's leather industries said Tuesday that the squeeze is off temporarily at least as both raw hides and tanned leather arrived in shortage-struck plants here this week.

L. A. Johnson, president of the National Motor Bearing Co. said Tuesday that his plant here had recently received shipments of enough leather to carry operations in making oil seals through the next fortnight. If present deliveries continue, he added, the plant, which was threatened with a shutdown during the past few weeks, will be back to normal operation.

The Beeger Tanning Co. has been promised by its raw hide supplier that it will receive enough hides to keep it from closing, Henry Beeger said here. At the heighth of the shortage the tannery was down to a two-day supply.

Both hides and leather have been offered at June OPA ceiling prices, but Beeger said he anticipated a general boost in prices for the entire leather industry.

The Acme Glove Co. of San Carlos also has been receiving supplies, but management said that full operations would not be resumed until it is seen that supplies will flow in continuously at a normal level.

No reason for the reappearance of leather was definitely stated, but some sources speculated that hide producers, who precipitated the shortage by refusing to sell raw hides at ceiling prices, were releasing a few hides to dodge pressure from Civilian Production Administration investigators, who had been detailed to hunt down producers who were withholding hides.

The same sources suggested that hide producers may continue to release hides for the next few weeks to keep pressure from the investigators and hide-hungry industries at arm's length while waiting and working for anticipated price increases.

Pleads 'Not Guilty'

William King Jr., 23, San Francisco Negro, Monday pleaded not guilty to an arson charge and Superior Court Judge A. R. Cotton set Oct. 15 as time to set trial.

King is charged with setting fire to a car owned by Ethel F. M. Hudson in Burlingame July 7.

Oleson Speeds Signup; Cottrell Lashes Out At Charter Proposals

Ole S. Oleson, chairman of the Citizens' Charter Study Committee Tuesday promised a court battle if the district attorney rejects petitions to place charter amendments on the Nov. 5 ballot. He simultaneously released the text of the critical Cottrell report.

Oleson, who appeared in the office of County Executive Frederick Peterson Tuesday for a lengthy conference on "business," said his committee was going ahead with plans to place proposals before voters in the general election.

He said petitions, bearing the necessary minimum of 4800 signatures, would be filed with the county clerk by the deadline—Sept. 7.

Despite the opinions of Dist. Atty. Gilbert D. Ferrell and Professor Edwin Cottrell of Stanford University, charter expert, that the Oleson proposals — as "packaged" — are illegal, Oleson Tuesday reiterated his belief they would qualify, and said:

"I'd like to see a nice friendly suit to settle this thing."

He added the amendments as proposed by a six-man self-appointed, study committee should be accepted "all or nothing. . . . You can't do business with the county as it is now . . . it should be through the county executive's office."

Oleson recently did business with the county in connection with sale of the juvenile site on lower Broadway.

It was Professor Cottrell's report to the Oleson committee, rendered upon request Aug. 7, that first called attention to a questionable legality of a "packaged deal."

In his comments on more than 50 proposed changes to the charter, that are proposed as one proposition, Professor Cottrell laid emphasis on a provision to make the county executive ex-officio chairman of the civil service commission.

"This is the most hideous provision in the revised draft. To have the executive fill vacancies instead of the original creators, the board of supervisors, breaks all precedent. But to have the very officer who should be checked by a true merit system sitting as chairman of the board is beyond all reason and established practice."

Other comments on some of the proposals:

1. "The election of the members of the Board of Supervisors is changed from at large to districts. The whole trend of election of small representative bodies in county or municipal governments is toward election at large and away from district provincialism and geographical pulling and hauling . . . the provincial district elective system is antiquated and particularly injurious to the heavily populated and tax-paying portions of the county."

2. "New section giving the county executive complete executive power of veto over the action of the board of supervisors. This section creates a near-true executive, or what is known in municipal organization as 'strong' executive. The whole shift of charter powers is changed from the board of supervisors to the county executive."

3. "Section 5 of present charter omitted. Provides for the qualifications of appointees of the county executive. Rather an important statement and protective device."

4. Vacancy in elected offices filled by the county executive, NOT by the board of supervisors."

5. "New salary scale for officers. Fixed salaries would never be mentioned in a charter or constitution. Witness the situation in California where the governor is at $10,000 and many state officers are being paid much higher salaries. Minimum rates might be mentioned, but not fixed salaries. . . . Fixed salary provisions for officers are dangerous under changing economic conditions."

6. "Old section 6 with deletion of the four-fifths vote necessary to pass an emergency appropriation. This is a most important matter and should need some discussion before allowing any legislative body to pass emergency appropriations by a simple majority vote." The article on fiscal procedure is "substantially a copy of similar provisions in the charter of the City and County of San Francisco.

"Has anyone inquired about the operation of these provisions in San Francisco? Mayors Rossi and Lapham, the late Controller Harold Boyd, Controller Harry Ross . . . the board of supervisors have expressed themselves on some of the inconsistencies, and especially on the almost impossible time schedule of the San Francisco charter fiscal provisions."

7. Old Section 7 omitted. This is a most essential feature of any charter. It provides that the legislative body shall not interfere in the administrative duties of the executive. This practice is most objectionable and is found too frequently. . . ."

His report also stated: "The proposed document is neither a true executive or a county-manager type of charter. My guess is that you would have more conflict between the board of supervisors and the county executive under this draft than was present under the original or any of the various amended drafts."

S.M. Dog Show Set for Sunday

More than 1000 dogs will be on exhibition at the 42nd annual show of the San Mateo Kennel Club at Bay Meadows race track next Sunday.

Mervin Rosenbaum of Atherton, club secretary, said the one-day event will be the largest kennel show held in the West since before the war.

Mrs. Marion Foster Florsheim of New York, will head the list of nationally known canine experts who have been selected by Rosenbaum to judge the various breeds.

In an effort to stimulate interest in dog raising, Rosenbaum has announced he will give several thoroughbred puppies to children attending the show.

San Bruno to Fight Blast 'Nuisance'

SAN BRUNO—Unless Dist. Atty. Gilbert D. Ferrell takes immediate steps to stop heavy blasting in the Millbrae Hill Quarry of the Macco-Knudsen Co., the city of San Bruno threatens to seek a superior court injunction against the firm's quarrying operations.

San Bruno residents, irritated by cracking of plaster in their homes, pictures falling from walls and dishes falling from shelves, have asked city officials for relief, according to City Clerk Ralph Woodman.

The contracting firm is blasting away an entire hillside to secure fill for extension of the San Francisco Municipal Airport.

Recently, when San Bruno officials threatened action, the company reduced the size of its blasting charges, Woodman said, but now has resumed use of heavy charges. Woodman said many women complain of frayed nerves as a result of the shaking of their homes.

Woodman, at the direction of Mayor Joseph Hearne and council members, has written to the district attorney's office asking that the blasting be abated as a nuisance.

If action is not taken by Wednesday night's meeting of the council, officials indicate, they will instruct the City Atty. Rudolph Rapsey to seek a superior court injunction to halt the blasting.

Flying Tigers United
